

THE VERMONT BOOK SHOP (VBS) CONSIGNMENT POLICY

We review every book that we consider before making our decision, and look for the following in newly self-published books:

- Publication date no older than six months
- Author name and title on the spine
- Relevant and quality content
- Minimal typos, with a clean professional design
- ISBN required, barcode preferred
- Meets standard shelf-size requirements

The Vermont Book Shop's consignment priority is the work of local and Vermont authors. If your book is self-published and meets our basic requirements, you may qualify for placement in our consignment program. We review every book that we consider before making our decision. If you believe your book meets our basic criteria, we will be happy to consider it.

Our consignment review process usually takes several business days—we will notify you via email of our decision as soon as possible. Materials submitted cannot be returned via mail. We will hold all materials for 30 days for in-store pickup at your earliest convenience.

If you join our consignment program, you will sign a contract that allows for six (6) months of shelf-space for your title. The contract can be extended by us, at our discretion. It may also be terminated by either party at any time. We will pay you 60% of the retail price for every copy sold at the end of your contract.

- When your book(s) are received on consignment, they remain your property until sold. The Vermont Book Shop can not be responsible for lost or stolen merchandise.
- At the end of the consignment period, we will evaluate the success of your book(s). We may decide to extend the consignment period as warranted by continued sales.
- You will be responsible for picking up any books that do not sell when the contract expires or is terminated. We will hold all unsold materials for 60 days after end of contract for in-store pickup at your earliest convenience. Books not picked up will be deemed abandoned and be either donated or destroyed.

We offer the following paid service to assist in the promotion of your book:

- Add your title to Indiebound database, making your book available for sale online at every independent bookstore in the country, $15

Please sign up for this additional service on the consignment contract. Fee will be due with contract.
